SEPTEMBER -
NOVEMBER 2025

A surrealist image featuring a clock with a human-like body running through a field of papers. The clock has a white face with black numbers and hands, and a dark, textured body. It is wearing dark trousers and white high-heeled shoes. The clock is running towards the right, with its arms outstretched. The background is a bright, hazy landscape with a green sky and a yellow ground. Numerous papers and documents are flying through the air around the clock, suggesting a sense of urgency and the importance of staying up-to-date.

NAVIGATING ADMINISTRATIVE DECISION MAKING AND COMMERCIAL IMPERATIVES IN GOVERNMENT

Statutory authorities will typically have powers and functions that they exercise. Many will also have, as part of their charters, an objective to operate as a business or at least in a commercial context. This gives rise to a number of issues:

- Government's role as a decision-maker and exercise statutory powers
- Navigating Statutory authorities within a commercial context
- How and where do the roles intersect?
- What tensions arise?
- What are the key risks and what can be done to mitigate the risks?

PROPOSED CHANGES TO RESTRAINTS OF TRADE: WHAT WE KNOW AND WHAT EMPLOYERS CAN DO NOW

- The Federal Government brought a policy to the last election to abolish restraints of trade for employees earning less than the high income threshold
- There is speculation that the proposed changes will be made in the Competition and Consumer Act rather than the Fair Work Act (potentially covering independent contractors as well as employees)
- Although the details of the proposed changes are not known, there are many things that employers can do to protect themselves in advance of the changes.

PERSPECTIVES FROM THE FRONTLINE: UPDATE FROM QUEENSLAND SOUTH NATIVE TITLES SERVICES

Presented by Timothy Wishart, CEO, Queensland South Native Titles Services; Leading Native Title Lawyers – Government & Traditional Owner Bodies – Australia, Doyle's Guide 2025

WHAT HAVE PROPONENTS OF PROJECTS LEARNED ABOUT NEGOTIATING NATIVE TITLE ACCESS SINCE MABO?

After Mabo, native title law became very rapidly complex, not to say impenetrable to the average person. People working for proponents stepped in the 90s into uncharted territory, literally and metaphorically. Deals were rudimentary and there was much in the way of national and regional politics that affected some projects, particularly the big projects.

But now, new proponents in the form of renewables companies (particularly) have brought a different tone and tenor to discussions. How did this transition occur and why? State politics has recently affected this sector (at least in Qld) but that is probably more about holders of ordinary title. So what did renewables companies know already, or what have they learned, that makes a difference to the outcomes for the native title holders?

With the Family Law Amendment Act 2025 (Cth) now in effect, this half-day program examines how the Family Court of WA and the FC&FCoA (Divisions 1 and 2) are applying the new provisions, focusing on Section 79 and changes to the treatment of the economic impact of family violence, wastage, liabilities and add backs. Using recent cases including Shinohara (No 2) and Pantoja, you'll gain practical insights on what these developments mean for practice, along with updates on binding financial agreements, the interaction between family law and wills and estates, and relocation and jurisdictional issues. This is a program you simply cannot afford to miss if you want your advice to reflect current law and court approaches.

Chair: Natalie Kam, Partner, Jackson McDonald; Recommended Family & Divorce Lawyers Doyle's Guide 2025

A Practical Guide to SOPA Claims and Challenges

Parliamentary Law Forum: Ethics and Professional Skills for Government Lawyers

THURSDAY, 20 NOVEMBER 2025
9.00AM TO 12.15PM AWST

WEB2511W04
$420

Navigate the Building and Construction Industry (Security of Payment) Act 2021 (WA) with confidence. Unpack the most pressing SOPA issues - from avoiding high-risk SOPA clauses to reviewing and challenging adjudications. With recent case law reshaping the boundaries between SOPA and the Australian Consumer Law, and criminal penalties now in play for non-compliance, this is essential guidance for lawyers, contractors, consultants, and in-house counsel who need to get it right. Join leading experts as they deliver practical strategies, checklists and compliance tips you can apply immediately.

Chair: Juliana Jorissen, Partner, King & Wood Mallesons; Leading Construction & Infrastructure Litigation Lawyer, Doyle's Guide 2024

SOPA: HIGH-RISK CLAUSES IN WA CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS

- What are some of the contract clauses that might get you in trouble under SOPA and why?

Presented by Thomas Jacobs, Partner, Jackson McDonald; Leading West Australian Construction and Engineering Lawyer, Best Lawyers in Australia

CAN MISLEADING CONDUCT KILL A PAYMENT CLAIM?

When statutory payment rights collide with federal consumer protections, who prevails? Recent decisions across WA and NSW are testing the boundaries of SOPA enforcement, raising urgent questions about misleading conduct, constitutional inconsistency, and adjudicator discretion. This seminar explores five pivotal developments shaping the legal landscape:

- ACL Defences in SOPA Enforcement: Can misleading conduct claims under the Australian Consumer Law derail statutory payment entitlements?
- Constitutional Override: What happens when State SOPA provisions conflict with federal law under Section 109?
- Threshold for Bona Fide Claims: How serious must a misleading conduct allegation be to block summary judgment?
- Legislative Reform and Risk Exposure: How are SOPA and ACL amendments expanding the scope - and stakes - of disputes?
- Beyond Interim Relief: What rights and remedies remain available outside the SOPA regime?

Whether you're drafting contracts, advising clients, or navigating disputes, understanding this dynamic tension is essential.

Presented by Richard Douglas, Barrister, Francis Burt Chambers

REVIEWING AND CHALLENGING CONSTRUCTION ADJUDICATIONS

- Examine the review process for construction adjudications and explore the avenues for challenging determinations
- Clarify the scope of the adjudication process, including whether it extends beyond the issuance of a determination to cover enforcement
- Gain practical insights into when, how and on what grounds an adjudication can be reviewed or contested

Presented by Scott Ellis, Barrister, Chartered Arbitrator, Mediator, Francis Burt Chambers; Leading Construction Law Barrister, Doyle's Guide 2025; Senior Sessional Member of the State Administrative Tribunal

THE REVIEW OF FORENSIC PATIENTS WITH A MENTAL HEALTH OR COGNITIVE IMPAIRMENT BY THE MENTAL HEALTH REVIEW TRIBUNAL: CONSEQUENCES ON RELEASE, RISK, REOFFENDING AND COMMUNITY SAFETY

Delve into the practical considerations and complexities surrounding individuals who are found not criminally responsible because of a mental health impairment or cognitive impairment and the implications for treatment within prisons.

Explore the legal and ethical issues arising from the Mental Health and Cognitive Impairment Forensic Provisions Act 2020 (MHCIFPA) and the potential for patients to be detained indefinitely including discussion of conditional and unconditional release. Delve into the broader issues related to protecting the offender's liberty under the law and the 'unacceptable risk' the offender may pose to the community, if released.

- The District or Supreme Court deliver a verdict of act proven but not criminally responsible due to reasons of mental health impairment or cognitive impairment of an accused, or who are unfit to be tried for an offence
- Once the outcome is determined, the review process of mentally ill accused is placed under the supervision of the Mental Health Review Tribunal (MHRT)
- The MHRT reviews patients, allow conditional and unconditional release including the power to make a Forensic Community Treatment order
- Release, reoffending, community safety
- The Mental Health Advocacy Service, an arm of Legal Aid allows trained lawyers in forensics, either in house or panel lawyers, to represent the interest of the patient before the tribunal. Least restrictive principles are observed

Developers and head contractors can now face direct, full liability for building defects - even when subcontractors are at fault. The High Court's ruling in Pafbarn has profound implications for construction litigation, contract drafting, and risk allocation. Will you ensure your risk allocation and litigation strategy are airtight? Could your contracts be exposing your clients to unexpected costs? Join renowned expert Keith Redenbach, a leader in construction and infrastructure law, for a practical, outcome-focused session exploring the consequences of this decision — so your contracts and litigation strategy work for you, not against you.

Learn the urgent steps you must take to protect clients from serious and growing risks and to strengthen their position going forward.

Chair: Jane Muir, Barrister, Gerard Brennan Chambers, Brisbane/Ground Floor Wentworth Chambers, Sydney

- Key implications of the Pafbarn decision
- Litigation dynamics
- Legal strategies in defect claims will undergo a paradigm shift:
- Contractual considerations
- Urgent contract reviews
 - Allocation of risks
 - Clear delineation of liability and enhanced indemnity clauses
- Insurance coverage
- Futureproofing contracts

Presented by Keith Redenbach, Principal, Redenbach Legal, Finalist, Government Lawyer of the Year Award 2025, Construction and Infrastructure, Lawyers Weekly; Finalist, Partner of the Year Award 2022-2024, Construction and Infrastructure, Lawyers Weekly; Winner, Partner of the Year Award 2021, Construction and Infrastructure, Lawyers Weekly

Key Takeaways for Practitioners:

- Proactive Contract Negotiation: Delayed action could result in severe financial consequences for clients. Early intervention to address potential claims and insurance gaps is essential
- Holistic Risk Management: Lawyers must advise clients on implementing robust oversight mechanisms and contractual protections to counterbalance the amplified risks
- Legal Strategy Revamp: Litigation-focused practitioners must adapt their approaches to account for the exclusion of proportionate liability and prepare for a potential increase in claims directly targeting developers and head contractors
